

Firenock Aerovane Review by Josh Freeman, 12th July 2010 via-Mail Firenock Aerovane II

Hey Dorge,

I'm a friend of Mike Luckie and I bought some aerovanes from you a few months ago. Just wanted you to see the difference. The 2 arrows in the orange dot are fletched with aerovanes and the third arrow, if you look close is below in the leg of the target, This arrow is fletched with blazer vanes. I shot these yesterday at our local tournament in a fun shoot @ 79.5yds. I was running the shoot and I had approximate. 133 arrows shot at this target by a lot of different people and I watched every one of them. The wind was blowing the other arrows as much as 16" to the left or right of the dot. These were the only 2 arrows out of 133 that were in a group, nothing else was even close. I told everyone about these vanes and told them this couldn't have happened without them. So this has made me a firm believer in these vanes, and it also helped me win the shoot as well. I will now fletch all of my competition, and hunting arrows with these vanes. I will be making a purchase very shortly. Thanks for a great product. I'm currently sponsored by a local archery shop and Tru Ball release, and if you ever would like to sponsor someone, just let me know. I will be glad to show off your product at all our shoots.

Thanks Josh
